

Changes to your Budget Payment Plan

As a budget payment plan customer, your energy costs are spread more evenly throughout the year so you can better plan your household budget.

With recent system upgrades, Madison Gas and Electric (MGE) is now able to offer you a more seamless budget payment plan experience.

What's new?

- You will no longer experience a settlement month. (A settlement month is the month your budget year ends. During this month, you were billed or credited for the difference between what you paid and what you actually used during your budget year.)
- Instead, your account is monitored monthly to ensure that your budget payment amount reflects your projected annual energy use. After review, if we detect your energy usage has changed, we will provide you with a new budget amount. The new amount will stay the same for at least six months.
- Your initial budget amount should not change as a result of our recent system upgrades. Please continue to pay your budget amount monthly.
- Our updated bill design shows the following:

Total Account Balance is the difference between the actual energy costs billed and the monthly budget amount paid (the amount owed if you were to discontinue participation in the Budget Payment Plan).

Total Current Charges are your actual energy charges for the month.

Total Amount Due is the Monthly Budget Amount.

The amount due will be automatically deducted from your bank account.
